Art Unit: 1762

(1) The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

(2) Claims 1-4, 8-16 and 38-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grill et al in view of Rabalais et al for the same reasons as argued in the first Office action.

Applicants' arguments were carefully considered but deemed non-persuasive in overcoming this art rejection. Applicants argue for example in the para. bridging pages 6 and 7 of their remarks that "ions are... straight toward the substrate" and "ions have a ... uniform weight". The examiner is not convinced by this argument since the deflected process of Rabalais represents an improvement over the prior art of a straight line process to select the desired particles for deposition. It would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in this art to select the straight line process and of the prior art and to ignore its corresponding benefit. Also the ions of the references also have "a substantial uniform weight. Applicants further argue that the magnetic layer is deposited "over the magnetic layer". The same is true of the references. Applicants still further argue that "the distributed arc" method is not disclosed by the reference. The examiner is not convinced by this argument since the claimed "heated sufficiently to produce an arc... which comprise carbon" is encompassed by the prior art. See Rabalais et al, col. 3, lines 16-60.

(3) THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

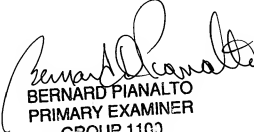

Art Unit: 1762

A shortened statutory period for response to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the date of this action. In the event a first response is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event will the statutory period for response expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
